Who are we?

CAPT-ACTP is a membership-based, not-for-profit organization comprised of members from scientific, research, academia, government, industry, consulting and patient community backgrounds.

Canadian research spans and reflects our diverse membership base and includes epidemiology, economics and policy decision-making across a number of disease strands and unique stakeholder interests.

Our mission:

Our mission is to advance epidemiologic research of therapeutic and other health interventions in Canada. We achieve this by:

- Bringing together diverse perspectives in a neutral forum
- Facilitating open exchange of ideas and collaboration
- Influencing policy and practice
